REGIMENT MAKING GOOD TIME

Taken Against Delay.

FINAL ANNOUNCEMENT OF THE PROGRAM

Formation of the Parade and the Line of March-List of Marching Clubs and Other Bodies Which Will Participate.

Notwithstanding the disappointment experienced over the delay of the Tenth Pennsylvanta, twelve hours past the time set for arrival, the committee in charge of the reception to the Nebraskans is confident that the latter will pull into Omaha early Tuesday morning. Twenty-four hours over the regular passenger schedule was allowed for the trip across the western half of the continent. Last pight the sections were on time and the Denver & Rio Grande, which will take them from Ogden to Denver, is allowed twelve hours over the estimated time. The Burlington, which will handle the trains from Denver into Omaha, has made every preparation for a quick, safe trip. General Manager Holdrege has issued orders to have two heavy passenger engines under steam waiting at every division point, so that in case it becomes necessary or desirable to put on a new engine the change will occasion no delay. The regiment is due to reach Denver Monday morning and to leave there not later than noon of the same day. In that case, and barring accidents east of Denver, the regiment cannot fail to reach Omaha at 7 o'clock Tuesday morning.

The program for the day begins with the breakfast at the depot, when the regiment Fitzpatrick of Columbus. will be fed by battalions. As considerable time will elapse between the arrival of the three sections of the train no battalion will have to wait very long for its breakfast. This meal will be a substantial or as will all of the three which the city of Omaha will tender to the regiment. The committee of women in charge of the breakfast to the Pennsylvanians has turned over to the Nebrasks committee all the food prepared for yesterday's use and it has been placed in cold storage free of expense.

At 8:30 or very soon thereafter the parade will be formed on the viaduct in the order given below and will move up town to the city hall, where brief welcome exercises will be held. The regiment will then take cars for the exposition and upon arriving will will be needed. take luncheon in the dining halls which are being prepared for their accommodation. In the afternoon there will be any number of amusements and the soldiers will be free to choose among them. The exposition manegement is arranging a program of addresses by some of the most noted speakers in the country, who will tell the volunteers of the place they occupy in contemporary history and of the value of their services. The rest of the afternoon will be free from official events, but at 6 o'clock a dinner will be served. In the evening there will be a band concert and a special display of fireworks. If possible arrangements will be made whereby the sleepers the regiment comes in will be sidetracked at the grounds so that when at night the tired heroes retire they will have but to step outside the gates. Arrangements for the Parade.

The parade will form on the Tenth street viaduct at 8:30 o'clock, right resting in front of Union depot. Things the Committee Needs.

The parade committee would be glad to have about twenty additional saddle horses, for the use of the governor and his staff and officers of the regiment, and request any one willing to loan saddlers to notify Captain Foy at telephone No. 345. The parade committee also wishes it to be well understood that advertising floats or banners or other advertising schemes will not be allowed in the line of march. This order will be strictly enforced. Mrs. George A. Hoagland, having charge of the flowers for the soldiers, requests any one willing to contribute to send flowers to her residence at Sixteenth and Howard streets any time Monday. A large quantity

The committee in charge of breakfast arrangements wishes it known that no crowds will be allowed on the depot platforms or approaches, they having been given full authority over the same by the railroad officials. If the crowds were permitted to gather there it would be impossible to serve the tables. Therefore this rule will be strictly enforced by the police.

There will be a full set of volunteers for the spectacular

Deprived of its proper nourishment, the hair becomes barsh proper nourishment, the hair becomes have and brittle, the scalp dry and scaly and the roots choked and lifeless in a hard, dry skin. Freight War is Imminent. Prospects of a lively and bitter war in freight circles are decidedly propitious, and yesterday when the Missouri Pacific officials affirmed the report that their road would reduce the present 6-cent differential as between Omaha and Kansas City on packing house products to the southeast, to 3 cents, the opinion was generally expressed by railroad men that the interested lines are on the verge of an acrimonlous struggle.

The announcement, as exclusively made in The Bee, that the Burlington would reduce the differential by one-half created no little excitement in Kansas City and the prediction is freely made there that Kansas City and the railroads terminating there, especially the Kansas City, Fort Scott & Memphis, will not stand for the reduction, but will maintain a rate on packing house products 6 cents lower than Omaha, regardless of the scale in the present rates, which will necessarily have to be made by the railroads, which will be backed in their fight by the Kansas City packers. The reduction of the Missouri Pacific takes effect September 1, the same date that has already been announced by the Burlington.

TWENTY THOUSAND PEOPLE TURN OUT

Story of Trip from San Francisco-Pennsylvanians Regret Very Much Not Being Able to Spend a Day in Omaha.

The special trains hearing the Tenth Pensylvania regiment arrived in Omaha just efore seven o'clock last evening, twelve twenty thousand crowded to the depot

The first section that came in was the baggage train, and it was unnoticed by the people, thousands of whom had been waitlar section came in drawn by one of the big "1700" engines and was made up twelve coaches. This section was charge of Lieutenant Colonel Barnett and his adjutant, and on board were the representatives of the Pennsylvania press and the legislative committee of twenty,

The crowd was so dense that it was with difficulty a way was cleared for the train to come in. When the stop was made there was an immediate rush for the headquarters car. Colonel Barnett was on the platform and by his side stood Major-Surgeon Neff and members of the Pennsylvania committee. The first man from waiting crowd to shake hands with Colonel Barnett was Lewis E. Beitler, private secretary of the executive officer of the Keystone state. Mr. Beitler, in company with C. T. Bartlett, representative of the Washington, Pa., Observer, had been Omaha all day waiting for the trains to come in.

Welcome by the Mayor.

The train had hardly come to a standstill when Mayor Moores also grasped the commanding officer by the hand and extended to him the official welcome on behalf of the city. The crowd went wild when the mayor handed over the handsomely decorated "keys to the city," which had been made expressly for the occasion. "I want to bid you welcome, with all the meaning the word implies," said the mayor. "We had prepared to give you a hot time In the old town today, and are only sorry that you have missed it."

By this time Colonel Barnett had decended to the ground, and as he held the big keys in one hand and met the grasp of Mayor Mcores, he said: "We appreciate fully the splendid welcome your people are giving us. Our relations with the Nebraska boys were very close. We were in the trenches together, and we helped each other out of some tight places. Our boys now feel that they are pretty well acquainted here."

The commanding officer as well as the surgeon in charge, reported the health of the regiment as excellent. The only accident on the way was that of one of the privates, who got a toe pinched in the bumpers.

"It was a tiresome trip across the desert." sald Major Neff. "We started from San Francisco late, and the Southern Pacific seemed to make as much further delay as possible. We lost eight hours time the first day and night. The continual delays have somewhat marred the pleasures of the trip. But our men have been getting three be known as Traveling Men's night at the front end of each section, and they are Presented with

While this conversation was going on the people on the outside were struggling to get close to the cars. The women of the reception committee were doing their duty under many difficulties, but the soldiers on board were soon bedecked with flowers and badges. Many people boarded the trains and conversed with the soldier boys. Lieutenant after a time. He sat in a double seat, alkins, and said it would be the sad feature of the home-coming. When asked about his recent nomination as state treasurer on the republican ticket, Colonel Barnett said: "I have accepted the nomination by telegraph and I do not know of anything further there is for me to say. I feel that the honor is extended as a tribute to the late colonel and to the regiment, rather than to myself individually "

This statement came with all sincerity rom the lips of the officer who had declined the promotion to the colonelcy of the regiment, the place made vacant by the death of Colonel Hawkins, and who had sent word to the governor that he deired to be mustered out as a member of Colonel Hawkins' regiment, and not as its commander.

leaving San Francisco circulars were distributed on the trains giving the full details of the proposed reception which was to be given at Omaha. This circular spoke highly of the hospitality of the Omaha people and was signed by Charles A. Muehlbronner, as chairman of the escort committee.

The last section of the train rolled up to the Omaha depot at 7:30 and was accorded the same enthusiastic reception that had been accorded the previous ones. The crowd was growing larger and noisier every minute. A woman in the crowd held up a large flag as the train came in and an enthusiastic soldier boy on the car platform shouted: "It's the same old flag!" It was like the one he had followed in the jungles.

This week the races will be held on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday and as there are about 100 new horses to be here in time for Tuesday's race considerable interest is being manifested in the different events. Saturday the Greater America Derby will be run. The distance for this has been reduced to one and one-eighth

BRICKLAYERS' ANNUAL PARADE Knights of the Trowel and Mortar March in a Big Procession to Pienie Grounds.

Several hundred men marched yesterday morning in the annual parade of the Bricklayers' union. Once a year the knights of the trowel and mortar hold a big celebration. It usually takes the form of a mammoth picnic at one of the parks, where athletic contests, social games and music furnish entertainment for hundreds of spectators.

Preceding the meeting at the park there is a parade in which every brickfayer in the city takes part. Work on all the buildings is suspended for the day, and every member of the union makes it a duty to appear in the regalia of the order and join the proces-

The parade formed at Labor temple was headed by the Omaha Military band of forty musicians and the officers of the union in full uniform. Following, the bricklayers marched two by two, carrying banners and union insignia. The line of march was down Seventeenth street to Cass, thence to Sixteenth street, south to Farnam and east on that street to Thirteenth, where cars were waiting to convey the men to Turners' park.
